

Spanish Linguistics In North Carolina

SLINKI 2011: North Carolina State University

Saturday, January 22, 2011

140 Withers Hall

Hosted by Jim Michnowicz, NCSU; Hilary Barnes, FSU

Conference program

8-8:25am Registration

8:25 Welcome and opening remarks

8:30-10:00 Session 1: Variation 1

- 8:30-9:00 Language Attitudes and Identity in an Italo-Mexican community. Hilary Barnes: Fayetteville State University
- 9:00-9:30 A loan is not alone: Everyone loans. Ariana Mrak: University of North Carolina-Wilmington
- 9:30-10:00 Ehpañol en loh Ehtadoh Unidoh: /s/ aspiration in South Carolina. Paul Reed: The University of South Carolina

10:00-10:15 Break

10:15-12:15 Session 2: Phonology/Syntax

- 10:15-10:45 The perception of English vowels by monolingual, L2 and heritage speakers of Spanish and English. Amanda Boomershine, Heather Creech & Elana Nuñez-Tiso: University of North Carolina-Wilmington, Ohio State University, University of North Carolina-Wilmington
- 10:45-11:15 Frequency effects on /ea/ vowel sequences in Spanish. Benjamin Souza: Appalachian State University
- 11:15-11:45 An account for the impossibility of Case alternation in light verb experience constructions. Ricard Viñas-de-Puig: East Carolina University
- 11:45-12:15 Are bilinguals two monolinguals?: Evidence from acceptability ratings for Spanish-

English bilinguals. Jerid Francom: Wake Forest University

12:15-1:00 Lunch (provided)

1-1:15 Business Meeting for SLINKI 2012

1:15-2:45 Session 3: SLA

1:15-1:45 Grammatical features of heritage and L2 learners' oral production in Spanish. Irma Alarcon: Wake Forest University

1:45-2:15 The effect of study abroad on second language Spanish vowel duration. John Stevens: University of North Carolina-Wilmington

2:15-2:45 Student satisfaction with a Spanish on-line course. Mariche García Bayonas: University of North Carolina-Greensboro

2:45-3:00 Break

3:00-5:00 Session 4: Variation 2

3:00-3:30 Linguistic landscapes, language maintenance and globalization. José Franco Rodríguez: Fayetteville State University

3:30-4:00 Second person singular pronoun use by Colombians: Role plays vs. questionnaires. Scott Lamanna: University of Indiana

4:00-4:30 Variation in the realization of the forms del and al in Spanish corpus data. Casey Carroll: University of South Carolina

4:30-5:00 Voiced stops in Yucatan Spanish. Jim Michnowicz: North Carolina State University

5:30 Dinner (as a group for those spending the night – not included in registration fee)