

Thursday, March 12, 2009

3:00–3:50 p.m.

Harrelson 330

Mechanics with Velocity Constraints

Dmitry Zenkov

What do grocery carts, skates, and running roaches have in common? These mechanical systems and critters demonstrate phenomenal stability. This talk will discuss the nature and possible applications of this stability.

NCSU Society for Undergraduate Mathematics

SUM Series